SEX ADDICT REHAB FOR DIRTY DUGGAR!

Disgraced Josh Duggar is now being blasted by his own family

Josh desperate to escape blame for CHEATING & PERV PAST

SELF-CONFESSED child molester Josh Duggar has run off to rehab to escape the widespread outrage over his perverted sexual compulsions.

The two-faced reality TV star, who lauded conservative Christian values while vehemently lobbying against gay marriage, has admitted to molesting his little sisters, cheating on his wife Anna through the notorious Ashley Madison Web site and a "secret addiction" to porn.

Even his own parents - who saw their popular TLC show 19 Kids and Counting axed over Josh's scandals - seem to have lost sympathy for their wayward first born, now linked to X-rated movie star Danica Dillon, who claims that he paid her for sex!

"As parents, we are so deeply grieved by our son's decisions and actions," Jim Bob and Michelle Duggar say in a statement. "His wrong choices have deeply hurt his precious wife and children and have negatively affected so many others.

"He has brought great insult to the values and faith we hold dear."

Father of four Josh, 27, has also affected the values of the family's bottom line, seeing how they were reportedly raking in $40,000 per episode, which worked out to $800,000 a season.

Family Research Council President Tony Perkins was even more pointed in his disgust with Josh, who once served as an executive director at the conservative Christian organization pushing "family values."

"His deceitful behavior harms his family, his friends, his former co-workers and the cause he has publicly espoused," blasts Perkins. "Josh's failures serve as a painful reminder of the destructive effects of not living with integrity."

As for Josh, he issued a contrite statement admitting his sins and declaring the obvious, "I have been the biggest hypocrite ever."

RAGGED ROSIE ON THE BRINK!

ROSIE O'DONNELL is on the verge of a nervous breakdown, fear friends. The big-mouthed star has been put through an emotional wringer by the recent drama with her runaway daughter and death of her father. Now, a close source wonders how much more the devastated diva can take.

Rocky relationship

Says the source, "Her friends fear she's just going to fall apart from the strain."

Rosie's dad, Edward O'Donnell, died from cancer at age 81 on Aug. 23. Although the two had a rocky relationship from the time Rosie was 10, she says, "No matter what, at the end of the day, every child loves their dad."

Adds the source, "Rosie always sought Edward's approval, but it was never forthcoming. As much as she wanted his love, when they were together, they clashed."

Rosie, 53, has also been out of work since quitting her gig on The View early this year. That was around the same time she announced that she'd separated from her second wife, Michelle Rounds. Now, they're locked in a bitter custody battle over their adopted tyke, Dakota — and the trouble Rosie's had with her bipolar daughter Chelsea is adding fuel to the fire, notes the source.

Crisis over runaway daughter pushing star TO MENTAL BREAKDOWN

— pals fear

Troubled Chelsea, 17, ran away from home on Aug. 11 and was found a week later living with a 25-year-old lowlife with an arrest record for heroin possession and child endangerment.

After the drama, mom-of-five Rosie was blasted by behavioral experts as a lousy parent — because she didn't even report the girl missing until DAYS after she vanished from their Nyack, N.Y., home.

And now it's come to light the creep Chelsea was staying with, Steven Sheerer, allegedly sent the teen a naked picture of himself via the Internet.

On top of all this grief, Chelsea has reportedly left home again to reunite with her birth mom Deanna Micoley after Rosie warned her not to go.

"Rosie has never felt so alone and miserable," reveals the source. "All these problems are tearing her apart. Her life has become a tragic mess!"

TOP SECRET CIA & FBI DOCUMENTS EXPOSE

PRINCESS DIANA never stood a chance!

That's the chilling conclusion of an exhaustive GLOBE investigation exposing the REAL story behind the People's Princess' death in a Paris tunnel 18 years ago.

And the truth is horrific: Diana WAS murdered and her body was manhandled and mistreated in a frantic effort to conceal the facts, derail the autopsy process and thwart justice.

But the explosive story finally surfaced when confidential GLOBE sources leaked details from Top Secret documents, known as The Diana File, that are kept under lock and key at the U.S. National Archives in Maryland.

In the 1,064-page dossier compiled by CIA and FBI investigators, stunning evidence details lies and cover-ups at the highest levels of the British and French governments in the aftermath of the Aug. 31, 1997 car crash in Paris' Alma Tunnel. Bombshell revelations include:

■ A grainy black and white photo snapped in the tunnel PROVES Diana survived the crash – and medical experts testified Prince Charles' ex-wife didn't have to die!

■ Months before the deadly crash, the blonde beauty was targeted by TWO sinister groups.

■ Diana was pregnant with lover Dodi Fayed's baby – and her body was DELIBERATELY embalmed to hide that fact.

■ Witnesses, experts and lawmen LIED in their "official" testimony – but an "Eyes Only" report revealing the TRUTH about Diana's MURDER was compiled for Britain's top officials and never made public.

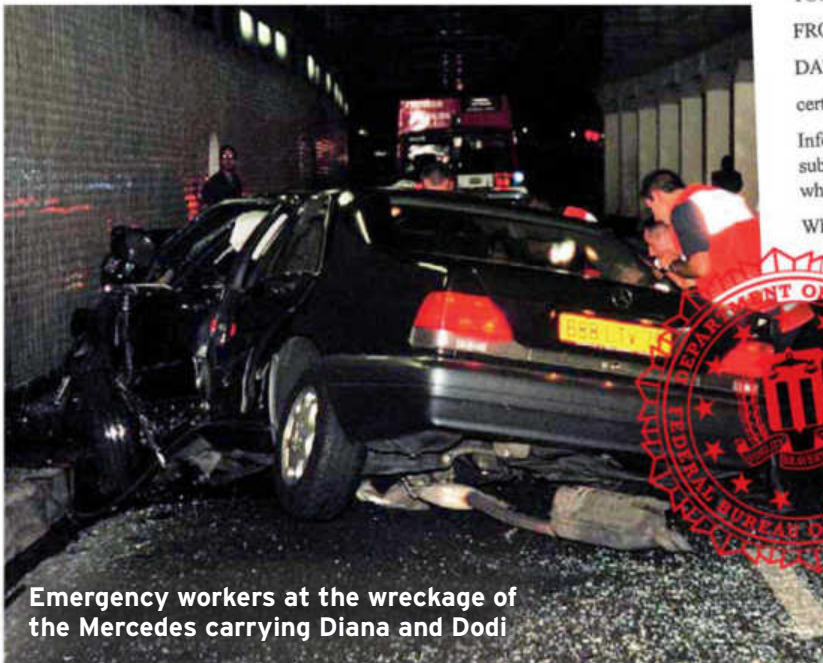

"However, CIA assets got a copy of the report – and

"We knew which members of the royal family would rather see Diana dead than have her marry a Muslim and bring a baby into their noble bloodline."

And as GLOBE revealed last week, Queen Elizabeth herself believes her son Charles had a hand in killing the mother of his sons William and Harry!

"Certainly, there is some very damning evidence pointing a bloody finger at Charles," the source says. "He did, indeed, help orchestrate the cover-up and ordered certain evidence be destroyed when he visited Diana's body at a French hospital after the crash. The conspiracy to take Diana's life started earlier, but the cover-up plot was hatched in Paris."

First, say sources, the exact details of Diana's injuries were hidden from the world – along with the time and circumstances

DALLAS VIXEN LI

TELLS

DALLAS wildcat Linda Gray suffered plenty of grief and heart-break playing Sue Ellen Ewing on the hit soap for 12 seasons – but that was a cakewalk compared to the real-life horrors she’s endured away from the cameras!

Gray reveals she miraculously cheated death three times as a child, went through hell with an alcoholic mother, battled polio and watched a beloved sister die from brain cancer. The star also spent nearly 22 years in an abusive marriage before she turned to acting.

Heartbreaks

Now, the beauty is set to bare all in a memoir, The Road to Happiness Is Always Under Construction, due to hit book shelves on Sept. 8, four days before her 75th birthday.

Says a friend, “Linda’s ripping the lid off her heartbreaks because she wants her book to inspire others never to give up.”

At age two, Gray avoided sudden death after running into a busy street, where she was narrowly missed by a speeding car. And two years later, she nearly drowned in a friend’s swimming pool.

“Then polio struck her just months later,” says the friend.

Linda Gray (circled above) was a gorgeous addition when she joined the Dallas cast as Sue Ellen Ewing in 1978

“Doctors told Linda’s parents her chances of survival were poor. But instead of sending her to the hospital, they resorted to what was called the Kenny Method, using massage and hot water to get her limbs to respond. They saved her life!”

Linda was an 18-year-old aspiring model when she met Ed Thrasher at an audition to appear on an album cover he was designing.

“Three years later they were married,” says the source. “Linda says she was the only 21-year-old virgin married that year!”

In her explosive book, Linda will detail her living-hell marriage, say sources.

She gave birth to two children – son Jeff, now 51, and daughter Kelly, now 49 – and dedicated herself to raising them.

But the marriage was abusive. She lived by Thrasher’s rules for 16 years before she “openly rebelled against him” and took an acting class.

In late 1977, she went on a life-changing casting call for a new show along with 30 other hopefuls – and landed the part of Sue Ellen opposite Larry Hagman!

After her bitter public divorce from controlling Thrasher in 1983, she wound up dating two men at the same time. “I’m living in the best of both worlds,” she bragged to a pal in 1985.

When those flings fizzled, Linda took up with Paris playboy Didier Fitoussi, who at 25, was 21 years younger.

But while she was enjoying single life’s pleasures and basking in superstardom, tragedy struck again – her beloved younger sister, Betty, died of brain cancer in 1989. “Linda was devastated,” says the source.

Sources also expect Linda to deal with the secret torment of playing the hard-boozing Sue Ellen Ewing. In real life Linda hardly ever drank – because she’d watched her mother, Marge, as she “tried to destroy herself with alcohol” for 24 years.

She told a friend, “Nobody on the Dallas set knew my tragic story. I just silently

And the actress has vowed to expose behind-the-scenes secrets of the original Dallas.

Pals predict she'll tell all about how she shockingly quit after 12 seasons because she felt she was being treated like a child by bosses.

But she has nothing but praise for her late co-star Larry Hagman.

"He was there when I really needed someone," Linda told a friend. "I'll never forget it."

RACY NEW MUPPETS WORK OUT KINKS!

THE Muppets are heading back to prime time - and their adult-themed antics will have their creator Jim Henson turning in his grave!

The revamped version of The Muppet Show - which originally aired from 1976 to 1981 - will premiere Sept. 22 on ABC. But instead of family entertainment, this puppet show will be PG-13, covering topics from infidelity to drugs!

"No subject is off-limits," says a network source, who adds the puppets' antics are "aimed at a modern, mature audience and addresses subjects that would have been taboo in the past."

On the new show, there's the love triangle between Kermit the Frog, Miss Piggy and a busty brunette pig named Denise - and a public breakup on Facebook!

Then there's Fozzie, who finds himself wrapped up in an inter-species relationship with a Cuban woman - much to the disdain of her disapproving father. And there are even wisecracks about marijuana use!

"It'll be real life," says Steve Whitmire, who voices Kermit. "A little edgy."

CAPTAIN AMERICA TRAIN MASSACRE

“LET’S go!”
When he was just 7 years old, Spencer Stone was known as “Captain America” in his California neighborhood because of his courageous childhood exploits.

All it would take were the words “Let’s go,” from best pal Alek Skarlatos for the all-action kid to launch into battle against the imaginary bad guys in “Air-soft” war games with fake guns firing harmless plastic bullets.

“We’d basically turn this neighborhood into a war zone,” Alek’s older brother, Peter, said in an interview. “Spencer and Alek were all action-oriented kinds of guys.”

Fast forward to August 23, and Stone, now 21 and a USAF Airman, was snoozing on board a high-speed Amsterdam to Paris train when he was awakened by those same two words from Skarlatos.

In an instant, the former football and lacrosse star from Carmichael, California, was bowling 20 feet down the narrow train corridor to tackle an armed terrorist with an AK-47 assault rifle, a Luger handgun and boxes of ammunition, who was about to open fire in a murderous real-life shooting spree.

Despite being slashed multiple times with a box cutter – getting his thumb almost sliced off in the process – unarmed Stone crashed into the shooter, Moroccan Ayoub El Khazzani, and began grappling for his gun.

Skarlatos, 22, was right behind his friend and with a third pal, Anthony Sadler, whom the other two had known since middle school, they overpowered the terrorist, knocking him unconscious before hog-tying him.

The three were vacationing together in Europe when duty suddenly called.

“Spence and Alek are the two guys who we should really thank the most because they were the first ones who actually got up and did it,” said British passenger Chris Norman, who also helped tackle the gunman.

Stone suffered wounds in the head and neck, and almost lost his eye. In the fracas, the gunman twice put the pistol to Stone’s head and pulled the trigger. “But it clicked twice and didn’t go off,” Joyce Eskel, Stone’s mother, said her son told her.

Going to the aid of his friend, Skarlatos managed to wrestle the assault rifle away from the would-be killer and pin him

Some of the ammo clips and weapons the gunman carried to the ground, choking him until he lost consciousness.

“When I talked to Spencer, he said, ‘I would have been killed if it wasn’t for Alex,’” said Joyce Eskel.

“My brother had to take the gun from the guy and started hitting him in the face with it because he was stabbing his friend,” said another of Skarlatos’s brothers, Solon.

Despite Stone’s injuries, he also saved the life of another brave fellow American, university professor Mark Moogalian, who was the first to spot the danger and was shot in the neck awake. "Alek said to Spencer, 'Let's go,'" explained Mrs. Eskel.

When they saw the shooter's gun had jammed they knew they had just moments to act.

She said the two friends grew up loving playing military games together. "When Spencer was little he had a birthday cake with army men on top," she added.

"It is absolutely in his character. I have another son, and they are both very courageous boys. It didn't surprise me at all. It makes me nervous at times, but I am thankful that he is that way."

All three Americans, along with the Briton, were awarded France's highest honor, the Legion D'Honneur, by French President Francois Hollande, following in the footsteps of icons like aviator Charles Lindbergh, General Douglas MacArthur, hero airline pilot Sully Sullenberger and Audie Murphy, the most decorated U.S. soldier of World War Two.

"It is clear that their heroic actions may have prevented a far worse tragedy," said President Barack Obama, who phoned the three Americans.

when he tried to grab the gunman's AK-47 assault weapon.

Still bleeding from his wounds, Stone applied pressure to Moogalian's neck to keep him alive. "My brother may not still be here if it weren't for him," said the 51-year-old academic's sister, Julie. "He was selfless in staying there with my brother. Our family is very appreciative."

The Stone and Skarlatos families lived next door to one another when the boys were growing up and friends said they would often play together. They met 23-year-old Sadler, a Baptist pastor's son and a student at California State University, at the Freedom Christian School in nearby Fair Oaks.

Stone was on leave from the U.S. Air Force base in the Azores, Skarlatos had just returned from a tour of duty in Afghanistan with the Oregon National Guard and Sadler flew from the U.S. to the Netherlands where the trio planned to start their vacation.

Proud relatives back in California said the heroes didn't hesitate when a gunshot and smashing glass shattered the peaceful train journey.

CLINTON CRAVES WOMEN, 'BENDS THE TRUTH' & HAD BULLYING, ABUSIVE FATHER

— TOP DOC

DEMOCRATIC presidential hopeful Hillary Clinton is reeling after being exposed by a prominent psychiatrist as a woman who has trouble with the truth and yearns for an intimate relationship with a powerful female.

According to psychoanalyst Dr. Alma Bond, the scandal-scarred former U.S. Secretary of State also has a bizarre relationship with men – as a result of her overbearing, abusive father Hugh Rodham, who died of a stroke at age 82 in 1993.

Bond, who studied Bill Clinton's wife for decades and published her findings in Hillary Rodham Clinton on the Couch, says the 67-year-old politician has had no luck in her hunt for "a female equal," despite her obvious closeness to her smart-as-a-whip, sexy aide, Huma Abedin.

Bond also says one of Hillary's biggest problems is her inability to express feelings, which traces to her childhood in Park Ridge, Ill. She was raised by a hostile, racist father who abused her mom, Dorothy.

Bond says Hillary's oppressive upbringing explains why she's not sure about men – and why she puts up with Bill's cheating. And the no-holds-barred author says, "She bends the truth."

Political analysts say Bond's explosive book could not come at a worse time for Hillary, who feels her campaign is on the ropes and Republican Donald Trump is poised to crush her White House dream.

Another setback

"This is another setback for Hillary," says a political analyst. "It's a huge embarrassment. You have to wonder how many more jolts her campaign can take. But the book explains a lot about her – particularly why she hasn't divorced her cheating husband.

"She has a load of personal issues, plus her campaign is falling apart. Word is that her advisors are pleading with her to dump Bill once and for all."

Hillary tolerates Bill's cheating because her future was shaped by the way she (circled) and her siblings were raised by her father, Hugh Rodham (far left), who abused her mother, Dorothy (far right)

dump Bill once and for all."

Hillary, who's desperately trying to emerge from a mushrooming scandal about using a personal computer to send Top Secret government e-mails, has lost all her momentum to Trump.

As GLOBE reported last week, Hillary has already told pals she's terrified of the Republican presidential front-runner amid an FBI criminal investigation that could put her in prison.

"With her White House bid teetering, Hillary is cracking under the pressure," said a source.

And friends are worried the self-confessed alcoholic could fall off the wagon as details about her precarious health – including three strokes that she's tried to hide – are exposed. Says the source, "It's all falling apart for her now."

DONALD TRUMP is proving that he can be both tough AND diplomatic!

As the Republican front-runner increases his lead over the GOP presidential field, he refuses to back down in his crusades against illegal immigration and the loss of American jobs to foreign lands, but he has extended an olive branch to end his short-lived feud with FOX News.

"Trump is showing what leadership is all about," says one political observer. "It means sticking to your guns when you know you are right, yet being big enough to also be able to mend fences."

No nonsense

Trump, 69, refused to put up with any nonsense from Univision's top news anchor, Jorge Ramos, at a recent press conference. When the immigrant journalist spoke out of turn to press Trump on his stance against illegal immigration, the candidate quipped, "Go back to Univision." Then he had security escort Ramos from the room.

"He was totally out of line," says Trump. "He started ranting and raving like a madman."

But after the newsman calmed down, Trump welcomed him back, took his question, and they wound up debating immigration for five riveting minutes.

The outspoken candidate has also butted heads with popular FOX News host Megyn Kelly, who he felt was picking on him during the first televised GOP debate. He blasted her in a series of Twitter messages, saying that after a vacation, "She is really off her game."

He added in a following tweet, "I liked The Kelly File much better without Megyn Kelly. Perhaps she could take another 11-day, unscheduled vacation."

But Trump soon ironed out at least a temporary truce with FOX News chief Roger Ailes and toned down his battle against Kelly.

In fact, he later praised her, telling conservative radio host Laura Ingraham, "I watched Kelly's show last night. She was very nice, and I appreciated it."

Meanwhile, the strong-willed billionaire is willing to do anything to make America great again - including giving up Oreo cookies!

Trump vowed, "I'm not eating any more Oreos" after the parent company of Nabisco, Mondelez International, decided to move some of its operations from Chicago to Mexico, at the expense of American jobs.

Then he offered reporters Tic Tacs, noting, "It's American-made."

Says the political observer, "It's as if Donald Trump has declared war on TV reporters - and Oreo cookies. You can't help but admire this man for saying whatever's on his mind."

INSIDE TV KILLER'

Consumed by hate, fired freak wanted to settle the score by MURDERING INNOCENTS

THE warped killer who gunned down two innocent journalists as TV cameras rolled was a hate-fueled walking time bomb who idolized the fiends behind massacres at Columbine High School and Virginia Tech University.

Chilling documents found after Vester Lee Flanagan II fatally shot 24-year-old newsgal Alison Parker and her cameraman Adam Ward, 27, during an Aug. 26 on-air interview, reveal his obsession with other crazed killers.

SUICIDAL SAVAGE

He was determined to copycat Virginia Tech monster Seung-Hui Cho, who slaughtered 32 in 2007, and Columbine shooters Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold, who cut down 13 in 1999.

In a shocking 23-page manifesto detailing his murderous actions and suicide, Flanagan

Shocking film taken by Vester Lee Flanagan show him fatally shooting reporter Alison Parker (left) and cameraman Adam Ward and wounding Vicki Gardner (center) writes, "I was influenced by Seung-Hui Cho.

"That's my boy right there. He got NEARLY double the amount that Eric Harris and Dylann Klebold got...just sayin.' "

Like his kill-crazy idols, former TV newsman Flanagan, who had been fired from his job at the same Moneta, Va., station where his victims worked, would take the cowardly way out. He fatally shot himself after killing Parker and Ward and wounding chamber of commerce exec Vicki Gardner, who they were interviewing. She luckily survived.

Incredibly, the 41-year-old monster, whose on-air name was Bryce Williams, filmed the horrific slaughter, and then shamefully tried to tar the squeaky-clean images of his victims in Twitter messages.

The despicable creep complained Parker was hired by WDBJ-TV after he'd filed a claim that she had made "racist comments" with Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

But station manager Jeff Marks notes the bitter former employee's charge was "dismissed...out of hand" by the

Former co-worker Nick Beaty, 25, described Flanagan as “extremely violent” and a walking time bomb.

Beaty, who worked as a cameraman with Flanagan, says the big man would start fights with co-workers and then accuse them of being racist.

“He would be working with a cameraman and they would get in a little argument with him,” recalls Beaty. “He would come back with some crazy excuse that the photographer was a racist or he was verbally abusive.”

Beaty says station staff would be mystified by his complaints saying, “What is going on?”

Staffers hold a moment of silence

None of this is true.”

But Flanagan was filled with “pure rage – you could see it in his eyes,” according to Beaty, who says the man would “snap” if things weren’t going his way.

“You could see the fire in his eyes. I am a small guy and he is extremely huge. It was my job to calm him down.”

When Flanagan was fired, he refused to leave the station’s headquarters and had a stand-off with cops. Other workers had to clear the building – until police took him away.

“It was so intense,” recalls Beaty.

Police ended up guarding the station for weeks afterwards because “we were legitimately scared he would come back and do this exact kind of thing,” says Beaty.

“We all had issues with him. He was just a nut job.”

EEOC “and that was that.”

The twisted killer also blasted Ward for reporting him to human resources at the station after an argument.

But Marks noted that the hulking reporter had a “reputation for being difficult to work with” and liked to provoke arguments.

After a series of encounters, news director Dan Dennison told Flanagan to seek psychological help in December 2012. Flanagan was fired three months later.

Incredibly, Flanagan tried to excuse his horrific bloodbath by pointing out “slights” he suffered because he was a gay, African-American. He claimed personal attacks by black men and white women justified his rampage.

He wrote that he bought a gun and planned his killing spree after the slaughter of nine African-Americans in a Charleston, S.C., church. He also claimed his diety spoke to him – and told him to do avenge the injustice.

But his excuses don’t hold water. He was fired from WDBJ because of his bullying and clashes with other staff.

COLD CASE JUSTICE

“NEVER let your past determine your future.”

That’s one of the inspirational messages ex-stripper Tricia Abney posted on her Facebook page – but her past may lead to a stretch in prison after she was charged with a savage 20-year-old murder!

Back in June 1995, Abney was dancing in a Birmingham, Ala., strip joint called Sammy’s when cops say she lured 23-year-old Justin Barnett to her apartment. The plan was for Abney and her then-boyfriend to rob Barnett, according to cops.

Gory crime scene

But something went wrong. Abney and her lover stabbed and beat Barnett to death, say police, who reveal the victim’s body was chopped up in a bathtub and buried in a remote area.

Says friend Jill Shelton, who’d desperately searched for Barnett with some other pals after he disappeared, “All we can think about is what was done to him. When you dismember another human being, you cease to be human.”

The Birmingham Police Department’s cold case unit finally got a break in January when a witness who’d stumbled upon the gory crime scene finally came forward.

“He said he knew of a murder,” recalls

Det. Jonathan Ross. “He had dealt with it for 20 years and it was eating up his conscience.”

The investigation led to Abney, now a 40-year-old with three felony convictions involving drugs and burglary. Cops say she confessed to her role in the murder and is being held without bond.

Her accomplice, a Gulf War veteran whose name has been kept secret by police, moved on with his life and married another gal after the murder. He committed suicide on July 22, the same day Abney was arrested.

Cops say he was the one who buried the remains, which they have been unable to find – even with cadaver dogs.

“Nobody knew the exact location except for the guy who killed himself,” notes Ross. “He was the one who dug the hole.”

Meanwhile, Shelton says: “Justin was humble, and he had a good heart. They couldn’t have taken a better person.”

AHHH...the Kennedys! They were once a family that generated hope and idealism until America woke up and discovered they were nothing more than degenerate sex fiends, boozers, drug addicts and losers.

Which brings me to Bobby Kennedy Jr. – the dark knight of the Dirtbag Clan.

Of course, you remember Bobby Jr., who was arrested for heroin possession in 1983, whose wife Mary committed suicide in the middle of a nasty divorce, who kept a nauseating sex diary, which was made public and revealed his serial womanizing and “lust demons” and who ended up marrying beautiful Cheryl Hines from TV’s Curb Your Enthusiasm.

Now a new book reveals Junior’s closest friends think Hines was crazy to marry him.

Really? You think?

According to the book, RFK, Jr.: Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and the Dark Side of the Dream, a longtime pal of Junior and a guest at his 2014 wedding “was mystified as to why Hines married Bob, since his history as a womanizer had become so public and was intertwined in scandal.”

Love sure can make morons out of a lot of people!

But now, in a ridiculous act of hypocrisy, Junior is said to be ordering his 20-year-old daughter Kyra to clean up her Instagram account on the Internet after she posted photos of herself smoking and partying in skimpy outfits.

Let me make this clear: Junior is a jerk! Does he really think she’s going to tarnish that fine family name? Not a chance. He and his family have already dragged it through the toilet.

I have just two pieces of advice: For Junior – shut your trap and clean up your own act first! For his wife, Cheryl – Run! Run as fast as you can to the nearest divorce attorney.

AS the world's first black supermodel, Beverly Johnson rubbed elbows – and much more – with the rich and famous. And now, in a bombshell tell-all, she dishes on everything from long nights of passion with late tennis great Arthur Ashe to a “short encounter” with Eddie Murphy.

Johnson and Ashe – who died of AIDS-related pneumonia in 1993 – hooked up shortly after he won Wimbledon in 1975.

“We had all night lovemaking sessions,” Johnson, 62, recalls in her memoir, The Face That Changed It All.

“I was forced to pull out a bigger book of tricks to help him get to the point of no return, or risk some serious health issues of my own.”

One of those tricks, she adds, was to show up in a “seductive cowgirl outfit” including a denim skirt “with nothing underneath.”

Johnson says her fling with comedian Murphy didn't go as well due to his oversized ego. But she found Mike Tyson to be more fun, even boasting about how she inspired the then 20-year-old boxer on the eve of his first championship bout.

“If you win, I'll give you some,” she promised.

It took Tyson less than two rounds to dispatch the reigning champ, Trevor Berbick, in Las Vegas, and Johnson says he showed up 19 hours later at her door in New York.

“Mike was young and still learning how to please a woman,” says Johnson, who was 15

She had a less passionate relationship with Michael Jackson, who consulted her about a skin-care issue.

“He struggled with horrible acne during his teen years,” she reveals. “The acne, among other things, scarred him psychologically for the rest of his life.”

Others made more romantic overtures, including Jack Nicholson and Warren Beatty, the latter of whom futilely tried to get her to participate in a threesome with model Lisa Taylor and him. She also enjoyed the company of Dustin Hoffman “because he was so cute and always told the corniest jokes.”

Johnson, who was Vogue magazine's first African-American cover model, recalls the disappointment she felt when her old friend and fellow black modeling pioneer, Iman, inexplicably ignored her during a chance meeting.

Says Johnson, “She looked me dead in the face and turned away as if she hadn't seen me.”

DIANA AUTOPSY WAS TOTAL LIE!

of her death at Pitie-Salpetriere Hospital.

Officially, her time of death is listed as 4 a.m. But sources say the top secret documents indicate she may have been assassinated in the ambulance on the way to the hospital – or have died HOURS before the death announcement to give officials time to cover things up.

Says an intelligence source familiar with The Diana Files, “There’s a massive gap in the timeline from the accident to Diana’s arrival at the hospital. And she was left lying at the accident scene for nearly 45 minutes before being taken away.

“Something was very odd. And somebody wanted her dead.”

A source close to Britain’s M15 security agency told GLOBE, “We know there were two different groups with interests in seeing the Princess eliminated. First, there were the notorious arms merchants threatened by her crusade to ban land mines. Then, associates of Britain’s royal family wanted her out of the way – they feared she could bring down the monarchy after she began her romance with Dodi Fayed. The $64,000 question is: Which one got to her first?”

Toxicology tests

The real autopsy report “shows the Princess was pregnant and contains ‘unofficial’ testimony from medical staffers who saw key blood test results and the embryo’s image on an X-ray,” says the intelligence source.

Radiologist Dr. Elizabeth Dion and nurse Jocelyn Magellan claimed they saw the fetus in Diana’s womb. Dr. Dion told friends her evidence was “incontrovertible,” but she was never called to testify about it during “official hearings.”

And toxicology tests were tampered with, too!

“Once the pregnancy was discovered, doctors got orders to destroy the evidence,” says the intelligence source. “They embalmed Diana’s body, which contaminated all blood and tissue, then switched her tissue samples with another dead woman.

At the 2007 British inquest, tissue samples harvested after the crash were declared “biologically impossible,” meaning they were bizarrely strange and unreliable.

And when the samples were requested for further testing, they had mysteriously disappeared.

But The Diana files reveal the damning evidence was “destroyed by being burned,” says the intelligence source. “A lot of other vital clues to Diana’s killer also went up in smoke. The cover-up was well run and well financed.”

And it reached to the highest levels of America’s government, too, the intelligence source insists.

“Someone with powerful connections to Bill Clinton’s White House ordered the CIA and FBI files on Diana out of the public’s reach,” says the source. “Britain is a key U.S. ally and we need to keep them happy.

“Obviously, some people are VERY content to let the truth about Diana’s murder be buried in her grave. Even if that means her killers are NEVER brought to justice!”

But the British people never got a chance to see the 2011 film, called Unlawful Killing, because it was mysteriously banned there.

"After the tragedy in Paris, people started to look around for an explanation, and nothing seemed to fit together," says Di's friend Michael Cole. "Clearly, some of the facts were being held back."

The film charges that the British government's inquest into Diana's death was a cover-up that involved the Royal Family, adding that the beloved Princess could have been saved if she'd been rushed to a hospital.

Evidence includes a shocking black and white photo of Diana moments after the fateful car crash in Paris.

"It shows clearly that, although Diana had been injured, she was alert and very much alive," says director Keith Allen.

"I repeat, it is not a picture of a dying woman."

The film trashes the Royal Family and lays the blame firmly at their doorstep for "orchestrating the murder of Diana."

This shocking photo of Diana shortly after the crash is key evidence in the banned documentary by Keith Allen (far right)

Medical news YOU can use!

PATIENTS can beat the crippling symptoms of multiple sclerosis just by changing their lifestyle with diet and exercise, says an expert.

Dr. Terry Wahls was confined to a wheelchair for four years after being diagnosed in 2000 with MS, a disease that makes the body's immune system savage the nervous system and brain.

The most common symptoms are overwhelming fatigue, vision problems, weakened sense of touch and difficulties with movement.

But the professor of medicine at the University of Iowa restored her health with The Wahls Protocol, a diet and exercise program that gives hope to the 2.3 million Americans stricken with the disease.

"The first line in every chronic disease must begin with addressing diet and lifestyle," she says.

Her tips include:

- Boosting the immune system with a daily diet of leafy greens, broccoli, cabbage, bok choy, brightly colored veggies and fruit, especially berries.

- Avoiding gluten, dairy and eggs that can trigger immune reactions.

- Eating 2 to 3 ounces of meat or gluten-free grains and legumes with each meal.

- A fitness program including strength training and also stretching and aerobic exercises.

Kathleen Costello, vice president of health care access at the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, tells GLOBE, "Numerous studies have provided clues to the importance of lifestyle behaviors in overall MS management.

"It is our hope that continued research will further our understanding of MS and provide more strategies that modify the disease process, treat symptoms and improve quality of life."

Skipping breakfast bad for diabetics

+ TYPE-2 diabetics who skip their morning meal are at risk for blood sugar spikes, a new study suggests. Researchers from Tel Aviv University looked at 22 patients with Type-2 diabetes, which affects more than 29 million American adults. The scientists found breakfast-skippers had higher-than-normal surges in their blood sugar after lunch and dinner. Their bodies were also less capable of converting blood sugar into energy, according to the study.

Drug combo risks brain bleeding

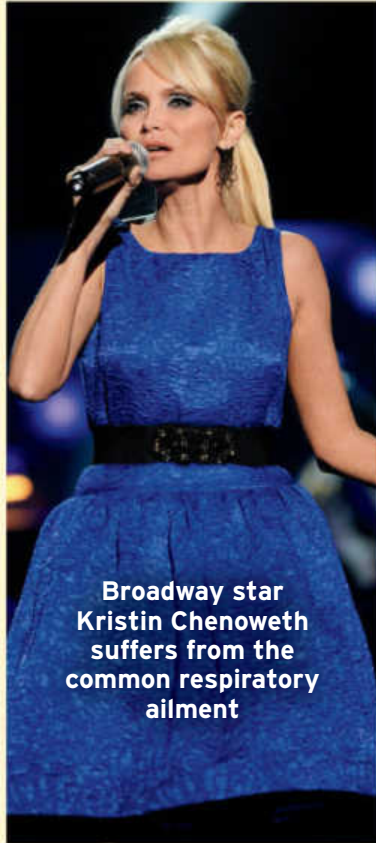

+ ANTIDEPRESSANT users, beware! Taking the drugs with common painkillers could be hazardous to your health! Korean researchers found people who were prescribed antidepressants for the first time who also used pain relievers such as aspirin, ibuprofen and naproxen had an increased risk of brain bleeding over the next month. Known as an intracranial hemorrhage, it can lead to permanent brain damage or death. While the risk is relatively low, researchers urged antidepressant users to exercise caution.

BEST WAYS TO TREAT ASTHMA

BREATH-robbing asthma can be scary, but the condition can be controlled with medications and by avoiding substances that trigger the problem.

Actress and singer Kristin Chenoweth, 47, one of 20 million asthmatics in the U.S. and star of Broadway's Wicked, has learned to manage her condition with preventive medication and an inhaler when a gasping, wheezing, coughing attack strikes.

Georgia expert Dr. Andy Nish says the problem "causes two conditions in the lungs - inflammation which is treated by medicines like steroids, and bronchospasm, a closing of the airways, which is treated with rescue inhalers such as Albuterol."

Broadway star Kristin Chenoweth suffers from the common respiratory ailment

Asthmatics should also avoid cigarette smoke, strong odors such as perfumes, drastic weather or temperature changes and high levels of smog or pollution.

A yearly flu shot is essential, and losing weight helps control symptoms.

Also, exercise can reduce the severity of asthma, says Nish.

LOVESICK BINDI 'DANCING' ON AIR!

BINDI IRWIN is two-stepping closer to her daredevil American boyfriend, and sources say her mom's delighted the teen has decided not to elope!

The late Crocodile Hunter Steve Irwin's 17-year-old daughter inked a deal to appear on Dancing with the Stars in California, putting the Australian cutie on the same continent as her beau, Florida wake boarder Chandler Powell.

As GLOBE recently reported, Bindi was prepared to run away and elope after her mom, Terri, nixed the idea of Chandler, 18, coming to live at the family's Australia Zoo.

"Terri thought Bindi was too young to basically be living with a boyfriend," reveals an insider. "But Bindi pulled an end-run around her mom with the Dancing gig. Now Chandler is planning to fly from Florida to be her cheerleader."

Bindi was just a baby when she first appeared on TV with her dad, and she was devastated by his tragic 2006 death from a freak stingray attack.

But she took up his wildlife conservation mantel and has remained in the public eye by appearing on shows such as Bindi The Jungle Girl.

Now, she says she's "excited" about her "new adventure" on the hit ABC competition, premiering Sept. 14. And Terri seems to finally be accepting her daughter's romance.

"Terri will accompany Bindi to oversee her dance training," says another source. "She's also softened to the idea of Bindi seeing Chandler."

"She knows Steve's watching from heaven and wouldn't begrudge their girl a chance to star on national TV – and Bindi will have the love and support of her boyfriend."

MANDEL MAKES AMERICA PUKE!

HOWIE MANDEL is eating his words after making a tacky joke that left a bad taste in viewers' mouths!

After watching the performance of Stevie Starr, a "professional regurgitator" who swallows objects whole then brings them back up in one piece, the America's Got Talent judge quipped: "You, sir, make bulimia entertaining."

But Howie quickly realized the life-threatening eating disorder is no joke and apologized a few segments later.

"I just wanna take a second just to apologize. I made a comment earlier. It's live television, I wasn't thinking," he said. "I made light of bulimia, which is a very serious eating disorder and mental health issue."

The 59-year-old, who suffers from ADHD, OCD, anxiety and depression, then admitted his comment was "stupid" and added: "I'm not perfect, I make mistakes."

KIRK DOUGLAS GIVING AWAY $80M FORTUNE!

KIRK DOUGLAS has amassed an $80 million fortune over the course of his 60-year film career, and now the 98-year-old showbiz legend wants to give it all away!

Born in New York in 1916 to poor Russian Jewish immigrants, young Kirk learned the importance of compassion as a kid.

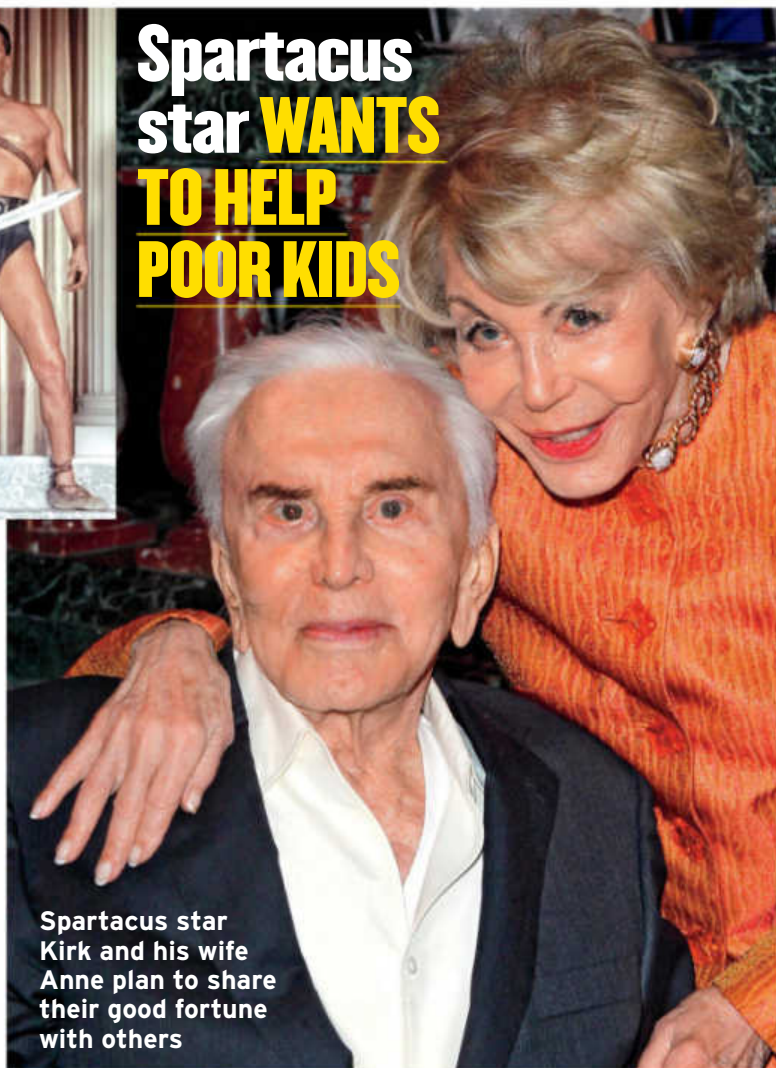

"Sometimes we didn't have enough to eat, but very often there would be a knock at the door and it would be a hobo wanting food, and my mother always gave them something," says the Spartacus star.

"My mother said to me, 'You must take care of other people.' That stayed with me."

Kirk and his wife of more than six decades, Anne, were shrewd with the Spartacus star's earnings from his acting

Spartacus star Kirk and his wife Anne plan to share their good fortune with others gigs and production company. And as Kirk approaches his 99th birthday on Dec. 9, he's making plans to share his wealth through his charitable organization, the Douglas Foundation.

He's already donated more than $50 million to a variety of causes focused on helping children through scholarships.

But some cash is earmarked to build 408 children's playgrounds in the L.A. school district and for a women's homeless shelter.

Douglas and his wife have also pledged $15 million to the Motion Picture & Television fund to expand Harry's Haven, a center for Alzheimer's and dementia patients named for Kirk's father.

F TROOP TOMBOY'S TRAGIC FINAL DAYS

F TROOP fans knew her as sharpshooting spitfire Wrangler Jane, but actress Melody Patterson spent her sad last days confined to a nursing home after a tragic accident.

Patterson, 66, died of multiple organ failure on Aug. 20. Although friends and former co-stars remember her as "extremely independent," her health had been declining in recent years.

"She fell a few years ago and broke her back," says one friend. "It was all downhill since then."

Patterson landed the role of tomboy Wrangler Jane on the Western comedy series when she was just 15. At first, producers worried she wouldn't fit in with the all-male cast.

But co-star Larry Storch, who posted about her death on Facebook, says it wasn't an issue.

Like her character, "Melody could hang with the boys," he said.

Technology Made Easy for Seniors

“Finally!

I can stay connected with my kids and grandkids.”

I didn't want to buy a computer because I didn't know how to use one. I was intimidated. But when I came across the NCD computer package, I knew it was right for me!

My Personal Tutor Made Me a Whiz

He showed me how to use email, facebook, video chat, share photos; and I haven't felt this close to my family and friends in years! I even make my computer take dictation and read messages to me, like a secretary. I love it! They provided everything I needed to get started, helping me set up the computer, use the internet, write and send emails and print my favorite photos of the grandkids. The only thing I had to do was set up an internet connection with my local provider.

They Fixed My Computer Remotely

Whenever I had a problem I couldn't fix, they'd get inside my computer and take care of it. It was fast, easy, and it didn't take more than a phone call.

It Came with a Photo Printer

I still like picture frames and photo albums. That's why I was so excited about the Photo Printer included. Now, whenever my kids email pictures of the grandkids, I simply print them and put them in a frame and have them as a constant reminder.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

For the week of September 14 – September 20

by Emily Hamer-West

ARIES March 21 - April 20

It's tempting to flash some cash and show off to impress a new companion or an old friend, but playing the role of bigshot will only backfire. Be yourself, Ram! Romance is sizzling and singles may meet someone new even if you're not looking! The weekend's Sagittarius moon favors travel.

GEMINI May 22 - June 21

Thinking of getting back with an old flame? Listen well when a good friend offers advice - he knows something vital to help you make up your mind. Enter as many contests as you can, you could win a travel prize! Venus says: Go ahead and get that trendy new hairstyle!

LEO July 23 - August 23

Money worries have you on edge, but relax, Lion. A source of steady income perfectly suited to your abilities is coming! Your sense of humor saves the day when an in-law acts up at a family gathering. Cracking jokes turns the tables on offensive behavior.

LIBRA September 23 - October 23

Cash news arrives early in the week, freeing up money to make needed home repairs. You'll find bargains on artwork and decor, but get a second opinion on anything electrical. Don't let a whispered conversation get you in a tizzy under the Scorpio moon - there's nothing to fear!

SAGITTARIUS November 23 - December 21

Speeding through your days is leading to missed opportunities and even potential romance for the single Archer! Make "stop and smell the roses" your mantra, even if that means slashing to-do items from your calendar! The Sagittarius moon pushes you outside for fun this weekend.

AQUARIUS January 21 - February 18

News on the financial front seems troubling, but look at the fine print - you'll see it has long-lasting benefits that could make you wealthy in coming years. This weekend is an ideal time for couples to get away together - alone, no children allowed! It'll do wonders for your relationship!

TAURUS April 21 - May 21

The planets line up Friday to ease your recent soul-searching, Bull. Now is the time to get out and socialize - meet and greet and look for friendship in your community! Ignoring a health symptom won't make it disappear - seek medical advice for a quick and simple cure! Wear red for luck.

CANCER June 22 - July 22

You've been really rattled lately and could use some inner calm, Crab! Surround yourself with the colors of the sea and sky to soothe yourself. Shop for blue clothing or even paint a wall your favorite shade! Saturday's Sagittarius moon inspires big changes in your diet.

VIRGO August 24 - September 22

Pay no attention if someone tries to undermine your confidence. Don't listen to another word! Take a second look at someone who makes a delivery to your home if you're single. It could be the start of a beautiful romance! Get some rest this weekend.

SCORPIO October 24 - November 22

Yes, someone wronged you or a loved one, Scorpion, but that doesn't mean you should take revenge. Follow the Libra moon and find a way to forgive and forget. Better to steer clear of the mall this weekend, when it's easy to blow the budget. The number 11 has special meaning.

CAPRICORN December 22 - January 20

Your long search for new digs or the perfect job is coming to an end! Saturn shifting back into Sagittarius on Friday points you toward someone with exactly what you need! Keep an open mind, though, because at first glance this could seem all wrong! Do something generous for a lonely friend.

PISCES February 19 - March 20

Jupiter aligning with Neptune warns of untruths and hidden motives. Make "no" your money mantra for something that looks too good to be true. Take the opportunity to finish the household project you've been putting off for months. Sure, it seems boring, but the stars say: It'll lead to a windfall!

OLYMPIC CUTIE: MY SECRET LIFE AS HOOKER

FORMER Olympic track star Suzy Favor Hamilton is now blaming medications for turning her into a high-priced Sin City hooker!

In a new tell-all, Fast Girl, Hamilton reportedly reveals that she suffered manic depression and bipolar disorder, and that the drugs she took to fight the mental maladies had an unusual side effect - it made her "hypersexual."

As GLOBE reported in 2013, the married mother of one raked in a whopping $600 an hour turning tricks as a call girl named Kelly.

One satisfied customer gushed: "She's worth every penny. I will go bankrupt before I stop seeing her."

But Hamilton, 47, is apparently no longer selling her body.

Says a blurb from the publisher, "Today, thanks to diagnosis and therapy, Kelly has stepped into the shadows."

TOM'S NEW DEFLATEGATE: MARRIAGE IS ON THE ROCKS!

Quarterback SACKING SUPERMODEL?

There's trouble in paradise for Gisele and Tom

THERE'S an ugly divorce drama brewing between one of America's prettiest power-couples!

NFL quarterback Tom Brady and his Brazilian bombshell wife Gisele Bündchen have been at each other's throats "for weeks," says an insider. The constant bickering culminated in a blowout fight after Tom's 38th birthday dinner in August "where they dredged up every issue with the other that they'd been suppressing."

Those differences range from their parenting styles to the ongoing bad blood between Gisele and Tom's teammates on the New England Patriots. There's also been tension since Tom was implicated in the football-tampering Deflategate scandal. But it's super-model Gisele's controlling behavior that's made the marriage a losing game for Tom, says the insider.

"At heart, Tom's just a down-to-earth guy who wants a quiet, easygoing life," the insider explains, "but Gisele is so high-maintenance."

In an attempt to "keep up appearances," Gisele has gone into overdrive mode on social media, posting happy family photos of her with Tom and their kids, Benjamin, 5, and Vivian, 2.

But the source insists it's all a sham to deflect attention away from the messy state of their marriage.

"Things have never been this bad," the insider says.

Gisele has been spending more and more time away from their home and has even threatened to go to Brazil for a few months to "think about the future."

"A split might actually be a relief" for the beleaguered quarterback, says the insider. "He knows the situation is going to have to be resolved somehow."

Gisele, with kids Benjamin and Vivian, has been spending more time away from home

'CRAZY LEGS' COLON BARES TRUTH AT LAST

HIM

Richard 'Crazy Legs' Colon (right) was the man behind Beals' big dance scene

WHO doesn't remember the final dance scene in the popular 1983 flick Flashdance, when actress Jennifer Beals leaps, struts and spins her way into the judges' hearts?

If you have a keen eye, you may have noticed Jennifer's body bulged in all the WRONG places when she performed the scene-stealing breakdancing move – the whip backspin – that had her whirling on her back on the floor. That's because the move was actually performed by a MAN – breakdancing legend Richard "Crazy Legs" Colon! "It's funny when you slow that scene down and see what's really going on," says Colon. "There's a lot of manhood!"

Shaved his mustache

Colon, part of the groundbreaking breakdance group the Rock Steady Crew, also had a part in the film. But he was just 16 when he was tapped to perform the complicated move because neither of Beals' body doubles could do it. Colon shaved off his peach-fuzz mustache, threw on a wig and leotard and hit the floor.

Although the Rock Steady Crew still performs, Colon, 49, retired in 2012 and now serves as the club's president. He encourages the new generation of dancers to pursue career options outside of dancing but still makes sure they can deliver crowd-pleasing moves like the whip backspin!

SHE'S A CHIP OFF ANGIE'S BLOCK!

THEY say everyone has a doppelgänger – and the Internet has found a dead ringer for Hollywood hottie Angelina Jolie!

Meet Chelsea Marr, a stunning Scottish lass who bears an uncanny resemblance to the Salt siren. The brunette beauty became an online sensation after a friend submitted her photos to a popular U.K. Web site. Chelsea now has over 18,000 followers on Instagram!

Angelina

Chelsea

Although more than a decade younger than 40-year-old Angelina, Chelsea, 24, has strikingly similar features – full lips, almond-shaped green eyes, high cheekbones and long brown locks.

And with her heavily outlined kisser slicked with nude lipstick and her precisely drawn cat eyes, it looks like she even has Angelina's makeup routine down to a T!

MAKE ROOM FOR DADDY!

Danny Thomas lived like a king in sprawling $135M palace

DANNY THOMAS' former home is up for sale - and there's plenty of room for daddy and the rest of the family at this palatial Beverly Hills estate!

The current asking price? A whopping $135 million!

The 18,000-square-foot mansion features eight bedrooms, 12 bathrooms and sits on 2.5 acres of prime real estate in Los Angeles' ultra-exclusive Trousdale Estates community.

Thomas bought the property in the late '60s, built the home in 1970 and lived there until his death in 1991. The spectacular residence boasts a media room, a ballroom, gold-leaf ceilings, a motor court that can accommodate up to 20 cars, and a breathtaking panoramic view of L.A.

The estate's current owner, billionaire

Lebanese mogul Gilbert Chagoury, a Clinton family insider, purchased the palace from Thomas' children in 2000 for just $15 million. He then spent "millions" renovating the property, says listing agent Aaron Kirman.

"What makes this estate so valuable is the site, the grounds and the view, which is absolutely the best view in the city," Kirman adds.

Renowned “Gut” Doctor Declares...

“People over age 50 need a special strain of probiotic to relieve their gas, bloating, constipation and other troubling ‘bathroom issues’ once and for all.”

Because a 50-year-old's digestive issues are not the same as a 30- or 40-year-old's, Dr. David Williams created a very powerful and specific probiotic to help people 50+ get their gut in check, and put digestive discomfort to rest.

Like anything else, when it comes to probiotics for restoring digestive balance, there are good products, and bad ones.

But very few, if any, probiotics were created by a renowned gut doctor for a specific age group, like a new probiotic product that's now available to the general public.

Probiotics are 100% vital for good digestive health

Probiotics can benefit the digestive health of anyone who takes them by improving delicate intestinal balance.

Probiotic Advantage Beadlet uses a patented “seamless” encapsulation technology that delivers a shelf-stable probiotic enclosed within a tiny, triple-layered, pearl-like beadlet. The live bacteria powder is surrounded by a layer of vegetable oil, and then coated with an acid-resistant shell made of gelatin and pectin. This special layering protects the bacteria from stomach acid and ensures delivery to the intestinal tract where they colonize the gut for better health.

This bacterial balance is an important part of a normal, healthy intestinal tract, as well as for maintaining overall health and well-being.

However, as we age, the composition and population of these bacteria changes. The friendly bacteria we need decrease, and puts that delicate balance out of whack.

This unhealthy change has become a common problem today that causes many people over age 50 to suffer from mild to severe embarrassing gastrointestinal issues.

These issues can significantly limit quality of life and activities away from a bathroom

So with a strong need for a special formula for those adults 50+, Dr. David Williams created fast-acting Probiotic Advantage Beadlet.

This unique formula not only guarantees delivery of the probiotics to the intestines, but also helps adults 50+ by providing over 2 billion beneficial, live bacteria in 6 strains, with over 65% comprised of friendly Bifidobacteria, the strain that tends to decrease as adults grow older.

The gleaming little beadlets full of gut-health-restoring bacteria have proven to be a true innovation to guarantee potency, and deliver billions of specially researched bacteria to the intestines—3 Lactobacillus strains target the small intestine and 3 Bifidobacteria strains target the large intestine.

“After just two days I noticed a great change in my bowel movements. I was constipated a lot. I feel better all over. I highly recommend this for anyone.”

— Thaddeus H., PA

“I’m no longer sensitive to certain foods and my system is much stronger and resistant to outside influences. I eat what I like without suffering discomfort or embarrassment later!”

— Diane A., FL

These 6 strains together have shown to help:

- Alleviate diarrhea, especially when traveling
- Reduce gas, bloating and other digestive distress
- Soften stools without gas or bloating
- Maintain the small intestinal lining
- Promote nutrient absorption and use
- Support immune health
- Improve lactose digestion and utilization

- Neutralize toxic by-products of digestion
- Promote optimal pH of the GI tract to balance delicate flora
- Break down undigested food in the intestines
- Promote regular bowel movements
- Rebalance intestinal flora after using antibiotics

People who take Probiotic Advantage Beadlet each day can see quick results, in as little as one week.

And once the digestive system is working smoothly again, these results—and relief—are long-lasting. People will be able to eat what they want without worry or concern.

NEW GREY'S McHUNK IS JUST WHAT DOC ORDERED

HIT medical drama Grey's Anatomy has found its new male McLead - handsome Martin Henderson!

The long-running ABC series has been scrambling to fill the void created by heartthrob Patrick Dempsey, whose character Dr. Derek "McDreamy" Shepherd was killed off last season when he left the drama.

Now, doc Henderson is in the house and ready to fill Dempsey's scrubs as a new Grey Sloan Memorial Hospital surgeon. Some eager fans are already calling him "Dr. McHunky."

However, not much has been leaked about Henderson's character. He's tipped to be Dr. Meredith Grey's (Ellen Pompeo) new love interest, helping mend the widow's broken heart after McDreamy's fatal car crash.

Henderson, a New Zealand native, starred on Australia's Secrets & Lies, which was remade stateside by ABC with Ryan Phillippe. He also headlined on "Grey's" creator Shonda Rhimes' short-lived medical adventure, Off the Map.

Martin Henderson will take the place of Patrick Dempsey (left) with Ellen Pompeo

Now, "Grey's" fans can't wait to see the 40-year-old in action.

"I love Martin Henderson," says one fan on the Internet. "I'm excited about his addition to the cast."

Adds another, "Oh, hell yes. I love this. I'll be back to watching 'Grey's' now."

Meanwhile, Katherine Heigl has shot down talk she'll be returning as Dr. Izzie Stevens. However, Heigl admits she still watches "Grey's" and was "devastated by Shepherd's death. 'I just can't imagine the show without McDreamy.'" Hopefully, McHunky will ease the pain!

TV FACT

Marvel's Agent Carter star Chad Michael Murray would love to guest star with the nerds on The Big Bang Theory, saying, "Everyone wants their own Sheldon to hang out with."

ZOMBIES ALIVE AND KICKING BUTT!

AMC's hit zombie series The Walking Dead doesn't lurch back onto TV screens until Oct. 11, but the new companion series, Fear the Walking Dead, scored big, setting a new cable record with 10.1 million viewers for its Aug. 23 premiere.

The six-episode season reveals the beginning of the zombie apocalypse, caused by a highly infectious bug, and examines a Los Angeles family's struggle to cope with the end of the world as they know it.

Despite blockbuster ratings, TV critics had mixed reactions to "Fear," with one wag declaring the show will be "a huge hit at Laundromats everywhere" because it's only slightly more interesting than watching dirty laundry on the spin cycle.

But AMC is laughing all the way to the bank - and fans are hungry for more. "Fear" has already been picked up for a second 15-episode season that will air next year.

'INTEREST'S' SAMEEN LIVES!

Sameen Shaw will return

SEXY Sarah Shahi is set to make a stunning comeback on the hit CBS drama Person of Interest after her fate was left open to debate during last season's cliffhanger ending.

Her character, Dr. Sameen Shaw, was supposedly shot to death during the middle of last season, shortly before Shahi went on maternity leave while pregnant with Shameless actor hubby Steve Howey's twins.

But since the shooting, Shaw has been glimpsed twice by viewers in "she's alive" teaser scenes filmed before her departure, including a quickie in the finale.

Now, Shahi, 35, who welcomed daughter Violet Moon and son Knox Blue in March, is spilling the beans: "I go back in September full-time. I will probably do about eight or nine episodes."

KUTCHER GETS TANKED!

ASHTON KUTCHER will be searching for a millionaire in the making when he guests on ABC's Shark Tank this fall.

Surprised? Don't be. The 37-year-old mini-mogul has made a fortune over the past decade investing in tech companies including Skype, Foursquare, Airbnb and Fab.com.

The Two and a Half Men star, who's married to stunner Mila Kunis, took part in a Shark Tank-style panel about founding, funding and

TRAPPED BY HER OWN FAT!

Firemen NEED CRANE to save 910 lb gal

Firefighters had to wrap up plus-size Marie Bowman in a cargo net to get her out of her Harlem apartment

SHE CAN'T WALK OR FIT THROUGH DOOR

A SUPER-SIZED gal's chilling medical emergency turned into a shocking sideshow when New York firefighters used a crane and cargo net to haul the 910-pounder out of her apartment.

Massive Marie Bowman was too big to fit through the door – after rescuers removed the entire frame – and can't walk. So emergency workers hoisted her through a window in the second-floor apartment, prompting sneers and jeers from bystanders.

"It made me feel very bad, like a spectacle," moans Bowman. "Like a three-ring circus."

Bowman apparently suffers from lymphedema, a condition in which fluid swells fat cells. She's also suffered a tragic life including two failed marriages and the deaths of her son, mother and grandmother within a two-year period.

Ironically, her 19-year-old son was a security guard at the World Trade Center and survived the 9/11 terrorist attacks in 2001 because he was off duty that day. But he died a month later in a motorcycle accident.

Bowman says she was devastated by the deaths, but it wasn't until last September that she lost the ability to move her legs and became housebound.

"I was pivoting to sit down on the bed, and then I couldn't swing my other leg back," she recalls. "I keep trying to move my legs, but I just can't do it."

Since then, the retired state worker has relied on aides to help her shift her bulk. But on Aug. 21, she felt so ill she called 911. Despite the humiliation of being transported in a cargo net, she says it was nice to finally feel the sun on her face after nearly a year's confinement. And she's now vowing to get healthy.

"This is my life, not a show," she says. "I want to live. I am determined to get better. Weight reduction, exercise. It's scary to know you can pick up that kind of weight."

DUMBEST MOVE IN HISTORY!

HE could have been the world's most famous drummer, but when the Beatles came banging on Johnny Hutchinson's door with an offer to join the Fab Four, he turned them down flat!

And incredibly, he insists he has no regrets. The 75-year-old, who lives in a Liverpool duplex, also says he wouldn't trade places with Beatles drummer Ringo Starr, even though the former Mop Top is now worth a staggering $300 million.

Not for a gold clock

The way Johnny tells it, he was asked to join by the band's manager, Brian Epstein, after playing a few gigs with the group. The date was Aug. 16, 1962, the same day the Beatles' original drummer, Pete Best, got the boot.

But Johnny belonged to another band, The Big Three, a band he considered superior to the Beatles – and said no.

"I would not join the Beatles for a gold clock," he told Epstein.

Johnny says, "They were lucky to be playing with me...Pete Best couldn't play the drums – I could play the drums better than Pete Best with a stick stuck up my a."

Johnny also claims he's responsible for making Ringo a Beatle.

"I gave Ringo the job," he says. But "I wouldn't let Ringo play my drums...I didn't trust him with my drums."

Today, Johnny lives on a fixed income and owns a dozen rental properties and says he's content with his life and has no resentment towards Ringo.

He adds, "Ringo once said, 'There's only two drummers that have come out of Liverpool – me and Johnny Hutchinson.'

"He put me second."

Ringo, Paul, George and John (left) went on to international fame, but Hutchinson has no regrets

Simon with beloved mom Julie

COWELL WATCHED MOM DIE BY INCHES

AMERICAN IDOL's Mr. Nasty, Simon Cowell, suffered in silence as he spent "nine months of hell" watching his beloved mother die.

"She had been ill for a very long time," Simon said of mom Julie, who died in early July at age 89.

Although it was a "tough period," Simon, 55, kept his grief a secret.

"I did not want to burden anyone else with my problem. That's why I never talked about it," he said in an emotional interview. "In a way that was the hardest part because it was always on my mind."

The workaholic and new dad to 18-month-old son Eric only missed two days of work, including the day of Julie's funeral.

He says that's the way his mom wanted it "because she loved what I did."
